Learning Disabilities Association of Canada (LDAC) /
Association canadienne des troubles d'apprentissage (ACTA)

The Learning Disabilities Association of Canada (LDAC) is a national, non-profit voluntary organization which was founded in 1963 and incorporated in 1971. The organization's mission is to be the national voice for persons with learning disabilities and those who support them. LDAC is dedicated to a level playing field for individuals with learning disabilities to enable them to function as citizens with equitable opportunities and to develop to their chosen potential. LDAC accomplishes these goals through public awareness about the nature and impact of learning disabilities, advocacy, research, health, education and collaborative efforts.

Over the years, LDAC has convened experts from across Canada to examine specific research areas in the field of learning disabilities that are of particular interest to its grassroots members. Many of the findings have had major impact on policy development and programs that have enhanced access to more equitable opportunities for individuals with learning disabilities, their families and those that work with them in school, at home, in the workplace and in the community.

SECTION 2:

Services for Children and Adolescents (Birth to Age 18)

Department of Education and Early Childhood Development (EECD)

To request support services for your child in the New Brunswick public school system, the process begins at the school level by contacting the Principal. The student's name is then forwarded to the school-based team for discussion. The school-based team is comprised of an Administrative person, the Guidance Councillor, the person in charge of Resource and Methods, the Classroom Teacher and the District Liaison person. The team will undertake a problem solving process to generate strategies to address identified strengths and needs. These strategies are prioritized and implemented. Informal and, if required and warranted, formal assessment would occur.

Inclusive Education

Inclusive education is a pairing of philosophy and pedagogical practices that allow each student to feel respected, confident and safe so he or she can learn and develop to his or her full potential. It is based on a system of values and beliefs centered on the best interests of the student, which promotes social cohesion, belonging, active participation in learning, a complete school experience, and positive interactions with peers and others in the school community. These values and beliefs will be shared by schools and communities. Inclusive education is put into practice within school communities that value diversity and nurture the well-being and quality of learning of each of their members. Inclusive education is carried out through a range of public and community programs and services available to all students. Inclusive education is the foundation for ensuring an inclusive New Brunswick society.

Services Branch

Services to children with special educational needs are coordinated through the Student Services Unit, under Brian Kelly, Director, telephone (506) 444-4715.

Riverbend Community School

Riverbend Community School is a full time day school and tutoring centre that provides education for students of all ages struggling in reading, writing and math. We help students and their families understand why they have been struggling. We also help to demystify the complicated world of learning disabilities. Riverbend is a safe, empowering, non-judgemental space where students come to discover what they are truly capable of despite being unsuccessful in the past.

Our Mission: To teach struggling learners and those with learning disabilities who require meaningful, individualized educational services in the areas of reading, writing, spelling, math, GED, and all necessary literacy skills. We aim to offer unparalleled personal care to our students and their families.

Literacy Services

Learning Disabilities Association of New Brunswick (LDANB-TAANB)

- Barton Reading and Spelling Program (Fredericton)

The Barton system is a one-on-one specialized tutoring system based on the Orton-Gillingham Multisensory Method. It teaches the phonemic structure of the English language using a multi-sensory approach which recognizes that people who have a reading difficulty or reading disability learn best by involving all of their senses: visual, auditory, tactile and kinesthetic. The hour-long individualized tutoring sessions are held twice per week in the late afternoon or early evening. As a non-profit organization, LDANB strives to make this service accessible to all children, teenagers and adults who struggle with a learning disability or reading difficulties. As such, LDANB offers this service at minimal cost to the learner and subsidies are available for low-income families.

The Meighen Centre

The Centre is nationally recognized for its work with students who have learning disabilities and has recently expanded to include services for students with all types of disabilities.

In addition to providing services to students, the Centre works to help those outside the Mount Allison community better understand disabilities and runs a research program to study disabilities, particularly those affecting young adults.

Mount Allison was one of the first universities in Canada to establish a centre specifically for students with learning disabilities. The Meighen Centre has since cemented its reputation as one of the country's leading support and research facilities in this field.

It now will have the opportunity to extend that expertise to students on campus with other types of disabilities.

2. St. Thomas University

St. Thomas University welcomes students with disabilities and commits itself to work with each student to develop a program which will allow individual learning needs to be met. Services for student accessibility include a variety of accommodations and services for students who have special needs.

Like many universities in Canada, St. Thomas University has admission criteria designed to ensure that every student who is admitted is academically prepared to be successful in his or her chosen direction of study. Student Services attempts to give students with special needs reasonable accommodations and services. At the same time, all admitted students are held to the same academic standards and expectations as their non-disabled peers.

After admission, St. Thomas University students are encouraged to register with Student Services and to provide documentation of their disability. (All disclosed information is confidential.) Accommodations and services are determined on an individual basis for each student and will vary from one student to the next depending on laws, university policy, financial support availability, disability verification and professional judgment.

3. Université de Moncton -

Le Service d'accès et de soutien à l'apprentissage

L'Université de Moncton possède depuis 2009 un Service d'accès et de soutien à l'apprentissage qui offre des services aux étudiantes et étudiants ayant besoin de services particuliers ou de mesures d'adaptation. Le Service d'accès et de soutien à l'apprentissage est destiné aux personnes qui poursuivent leurs études à l'Université de Moncton, campus de Moncton. Il vise à faciliter l'intégration académique et à développer l'autonomie des étudiantes et des étudiants ayant besoin de services particuliers ou de mesures d'adaptation. Le Service d'accès et de soutien à l'apprentissage leur offre aussi un appui dans les objectifs d'études qu'elles et qu'ils se sont fixés. Service d'accès et de soutien à l'apprentissage offre des services de suivis effectués par des conseillères en intégration qui font l'encadrement des étudiantes et des étudiants et qui offrent du soutien au secteur académique. De plus, le Service offre un appui d'une conseillère en stratégies d'apprentissage afin d'aider les étudiantes et les étudiants à parfaire leurs stratégies d'apprentissage, ainsi qu'à choisir, comprendre et utiliser les aides technologiques. Il y a aussi un centre pour la passation des examens, mieux connu sous le vocable de CASA (Centre d'accès et de soutien à l'apprentissage), géré par la responsable de l'administration des examens. Des surveillantes et des surveillants sont disponibles, au besoin.

Pour obtenir des services particuliers ou des mesures d'adaptation, l'étudiante ou l'étudiant doit fournir un rapport d'évaluation préparé par une professionnelle ou un professionnel de la santé. Ce rapport confirme l'une des conditions suivantes : une incapacité physique, un trouble d'apprentissage, un trouble de santé mentale chronique, une déficience auditive ou visuelle, un trouble déficitaire de l'attention, un trouble du spectre autistique ou une condition médicale chronique.

Services Disponibles :

- Évaluation des besoins : équipements spécialisés, technologie adaptée, mesures d'adaptation ou accessibilité ou autres services.
- Collaboration avec les facultés, les directions de programme, les membres du corps professoral et le personnel de soutien.
- Soutien pour le recrutement de fournisseurs de services (p. ex. preneuses ou preneurs de notes, tutrices ou tuteurs).
- Lien avec les ressources communautaires.
- Appui pour les demandes d'aide financière.
- Consultations individuelles.

6. New Brunswick Community Colleges / Collèges Communautaire du Nouveau-Brunswick

NBCC – Students with Disabilities: <http://www.nbcc.ca/students/students-with-disabilities>

NBCC is for everyone. Our goal is to make sure all students have the opportunity to achieve their full academic potential.

If you have a disability you feel may create a barrier to achieving your potential, we encourage you to share your experience with us before you arrive so we can respond to your specific needs. We can accommodate those with mobility impairments, learning disabilities, psychiatric disabilities, as well as those who are visually and hearing impaired.

Please make us aware of your disability-related needs before registration, so your campus can help you achieve the services you need in a timely manner. Self-identify by completing our form or contacting the College Admissions Service at 1-888-796-NBCC.

Your information will be confidential in accordance with the New Brunswick Protection of Personal Information Act. The College Admissions Service (CAS) will send your information to the campus. The Student Accommodations Advisor (SAA) and Counsellor will work with you to determine your needs and put in place appropriate academic supports and services.

Services:

- Staff responsible for delivery of services to students with disabilities will verify classroom, laboratory and washroom accessibility at the beginning of each session to arrange any necessary adjustments
- Reserved parking for persons with disabilities
- Automatic doors, ramps, access to elevators, access to student lockers

- Academic accommodations
- Service accommodations
- Note takers
- College orientation
- Support during registration
- Library support services
- Test accommodations: Additional time; Distraction-free room; Reader/scribe
- Purchasing support services
- Assistive technology
- Alternate format documentation
- Tutoring services
- Proofreading services

Please Note: Some of these services have a fee attached which needs to be paid for by the student. Students can apply for bursaries and grants to cover some or all of these costs. Please see the Counsellor and/or Student Accommodations Advisor for more information about these funding options.

8. New Brunswick College of Craft & Design

The New Brunswick College of Craft & Design acknowledges that the fundamental requirement for successful inclusion of students with disabilities is recognizing that they are individuals with rights and responsibilities equal to those of other students.

The College will make every effort, where feasible, to be accessible to, and include persons with disabilities (mobility impairment, learning disabilities, psychiatric disabilities, blind/visual impairment, other disabilities). Our goal is to ensure that each student, regardless of the disability, has the opportunity to access appropriate and viable training opportunities in the visual arts. If you are a person with a disability with specific needs, we encourage you to share any appropriate information with us as we aim to work with you on lessening possible barriers which can affect your full participation in college activities.

Frontier College Fredericton

Frontier College trains volunteer tutors to work in small groups or one-to-one with individual learners who want to improve their learning skills. The philosophy of all Frontier College programs is that everyone can learn and that everyone has strengths on which learning can be built. Learners in adult programs come from all walks of life and all want to learn. Participation is voluntary. Learners are not tested when they come to the Frontier College programs. Instead, they are interviewed to determine their strengths and needs. They then join one of the classes or small groups or they may be matched with trained, self-motivated, compatible tutors.

The adult population that Frontier College serves includes:

- adults with disabilities

- inmates in federal institutions
- new immigrants to Canada
- literacy and basic skills (LBS)

Literacy Coalition of New Brunswick (LCNB)

The Literacy Coalition of New Brunswick Ltd. was formed in 1988 when stakeholders decided there was a need for a multi-sectoral literacy organization. Since then LCNB has carried out projects in the areas of literacy research, improving access and outreach, improving co-ordination and information sharing, improving public awareness and developing learning materials.

Mission: The Literacy Coalition of New Brunswick will provide leadership to advance literacy, lifelong learning and essential skills for all citizens through partnerships and collaboration with government, educational institutions, business, labour, community organizations and individuals.

Services offered:

- LCNB Learn Line: 1-800-563-2211

The Literacy Coalition of New Brunswick's Learn Line is a toll-free resource for Learners who are looking for literacy programs across the province. When you call the Learn Line, LCNB staff can help direct you to the programs in your area that best suit your needs. The Learn Line can be reached at 1-800-563-2211.

- Directory of provincial Literacy and Essential Skills programs in NB:
<http://www.nbliteracy.ca/nb-directory-of-english-language-community-based-literacy-programs/>

This directory lists community-based literacy programs for children, families, parents and other adults in New Brunswick. It provides helpful information for those wanting to access literacy programs in their localities, and for educators and others who refer people for literacy education and support. In addition, it will be useful to organizations wanting to build liaisons, and for communities seeking to create more coherent, comprehensive and connected provisions for literacy learning.

Learning Disabilities Association of New Brunswick (LDANB-TAANB)

Barton Reading and Spelling Program

The Barton system is a one-on-one specialized tutoring system based on the Orton-Gillingham Multisensory Method. It teaches the phonemic structure of the English language using a multi-sensory approach which recognizes that people who have a reading difficulty or reading disability learn best by involving all of their senses: visual, auditory, tactile and kinesthetic. The hour-long individualized tutoring sessions are held twice per week in the late afternoon or early evening. As a non-profit organization, LDANB strives to make this service accessible to all children, teenagers and adults who struggle with a learning disability or reading difficulties. As such, LDANB offers this service at minimal cost to the learner and subsidies are available for low-income families.

Key Industries

Key Industries has been providing services to people with disabilities since 1974. With a board of 15 dedicated Directors and 57 Staff, we offer services to over 160 individuals. At Key we strive to provide a quality service that is in line with the ADAPT Standards of the Department of Social Development. We also, on an ongoing basis, are moving forward to improve and enhance programs so that we can grow with the needs of the individual. We provide opportunities for growth and aid in increasing independence. Through the years, we have transitioned from only offering day services, to providing a wide range of outreach programs that meet the needs of individuals with a disability seeking meaningful employment. We are proud that we help people believe in the possibilities. Please give us a call if you would like to talk about those possibilities.

The Centre for Equitable Library Access (CELA) & Bookshare

The Centre for Equitable Library Access (CELA) offers free online service to open world of reading for people with print disabilities. The joy of reading is now accessible for people with print disabilities through your local public library. In 2014, Canadian public libraries established CELA to champion a national effort to enrich the reading experience for persons who cannot easily read standard print. What does this mean for you or a friend who has a severe reading disability? Hours of reading enjoyment from a vast collection of accessible books, movies, best-selling novels and non-fiction. Get instant access to more than 300,000 titles, including Globe & Mail bestsellers, popular books by acclaimed Canadian authors as well as classics, poetry, periodicals, and children's literature. Choose an accessible format right for you, including audio and e-text. Your local public library also offers access to Bookshare, an online nonprofit library of copyrighted content. The accessible ebooks are read with computers, tablets or smartphones. For more information, visit your public library and ask about CELA and Bookshare (www.celalibrary.ca).

The Canada Revenue Agency

Tax credits and deductions are available for persons with disabilities, their supporting family members, and their caregivers. For more information: <http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/disability/>

- Disability tax credit

The disability tax credit (DTC) is a non-refundable tax credit used to reduce income tax payable on the income tax and benefit return. A person with a severe and prolonged impairment in physical or mental functions may claim the disability amount once they are eligible for the DTC.

Other benefits include:

- Medical expenses
- Disability supports deduction
- Child disability benefit
- Registered disability savings plan

Resources

New Brunswick Public Library Services

NBPLS is committed to making public library services available to all New Brunswickers including people with print disabilities. To register for NBPLS Talking Book Service, visit: https://www.gnb.ca/0003/prog_serv/talkingBook.asp , a service that gives people with print disabilities access to a wealth of accessible formats such as DAISY books on CD, braille books, described videos, e-text, e-audio and e-braille at their local library or by mail to their home. Print disability or perceptual disability refers to a condition that prevents people from reading standard print due to severe or total impairment of sight or the inability to focus or move one's eyes; the inability to hold or manipulate a book; or an impairment relating to comprehension. All NBPLS libraries provide access to alternative format collections (available at the library and through the NBPLS website). All libraries also provide access to adaptive workstations. In addition, NBPLS libraries provide access to restricted alternative format collections held by the Centre for Equitable Library Access (CELA) and Bibliothèque et Archives nationales du Québec (BANQ) through the Service québécois du livre adapté (SQLA).

For more information on accessibility services available from the NBPLS, visit: <http://www.gnb.ca/0003/accessibility.html> .
